Ike Votes $251 Million Aid To Depressed Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower vetoed a bill Friday calling for 251 million dollars in federal aid to depressed areas around the country.

Eisenhower said the Democratic-backed bill was too broad and would "squander the federal taxpayers' money where there is only temporary economic difficulty."

He said there is still time to pass a new bill more in line with the 53-million-dollar administration measure. If he and Congress could get together on this, he said, it would set a tone for "sound and rewarding legislation in other vital areas," such as mutual security, medical care for the aged, and aid to education, to mention a few.

One Week Later

The President's veto came one week after the Senate passed the depressed areas bill by a vote of 45-32. Like the 201-184 House vote of May 4, this was substantially less than the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

In predicting a veto last week, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said this could be the first successful test of the "one-third plus one" slogan which GOP leaders have attributed to the President. That is the margin needed to sustain a veto in either house of Congress.

Democratic leaders also have expected a veto, and predicted it would provide them with an issue in this year's political campaign.

In his veto message to Congress, Eisenhower recalled that he rejected a similar measure in 1958. He termed this year's bill "even more objectionable."

"For five consecutive years I have urged the Congress to enact sound assistance legislation," he said, "On repeated occasions I have clearly outlined standards for the kind of program that is needed and that I would gladly approve."

"In 1958 I vetoed a bill because it departed greatly from those standards. In 1959, despite my renewed urging, no area assistance bill was passed by the Congress."

He said, "On repeated occasions I have clearly outlined standards for the kind of program that is needed and that I would gladly approve."

Elder One Castellano Pleads Guilty In Scranton

RALPH ANTONIO Castellano, 59, Little Ferry, N. J., yesterday pleaded guilty in U. S. District Court at Scranton to charges of bank robbery.

He was returned from Darlington, S. C., Wednesday night.

William Morgan, assistant U. S. attorney, who presented the government's case, asked for immediate sentencing. However, Chief Judge John W. Murphy deferred sentencing pending a pre-sentence investigation expected to take about two weeks.

Earlier this week, Castellano's nephew, Henry D. Castellano, 31, Edgewater, N. J., also pleaded guilty to bank robbery charges.

The pair was charged with taking $4,285.75 from the West End Branch of Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co. at Brodheadsville on May 4.

Arrested In Easton

The younger Castellano was arrested in Easton and $16,610 of the loot was recovered. His uncle, arrested in South Carolina, had $12,326 with him, leaving $5,349.75 unrecovered.

There was no indication yesterday when or if Mrs. Cecelia Staskiel, 39, will be returned to Pennsylvania. She was with the elder Castellano when arrested and has been identified as his wife, although she was booked under her maiden name.

She is held in $15,500 bond on charges of aiding Castellano after knowing he committed the robbery. Bail for the two Castellanos, being held in Lackawanna County Prison, is $50,000 each.

Tenseness Prevailing At Summit

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, his attitude of truculent indignation well advertised in advance, arrives Saturday for a summit meeting which could become a world-shaking wrangle in its first day.

In diplomatic quarters, the atmosphere was one of tense expectancy. One diplomat said: "We should know very quickly whether we're going to have a one-day meeting."

Westerners here for the four-power heads of government meeting opening Monday seemed agreed that the length and prospects of the fateful conference depended upon the Soviet Premier's attitude.

Still breathing angry indignation about the American spy plane flight into the Soviet Union May 1, Khrushchev may be in a mood to come out fighting. If he does, diplomats say President Eisenhower is ready for a toe-to-toe contest.

Ready To Inform
The American president is ready to inform Khrushchev that the United States considers Soviet secrecy a major source of war fears, and that the United States, therefore, has no choice but to engage in spying.

There was lively speculation on Khrushchev's decision to arrive in Paris 48 hours before the opening of the conference. President Eisenhower and Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are not due until Sunday morning.

Some expressed belief Khrushchev was seeking a propaganda head start at the scene of the summit meeting. Others suggested he was anxious to test the atmosphere. If the latter is the case, it seemed likely Khrushchev would be advised, in preliminary talks with President Charles de Gaulle of France, that unless he takes it easy in his approach, the summit meeting is not likely to last long.

At any rate, most sources agree Khrushchev is likely to bring up at the outset of the summit meeting the situation brought about by the downing of an American intelligence plane over the Soviet Union. Khrushchev has seemed more outraged than ever by American responses to his accusations.

Made Clear

It has been made clear to Khrushchev that President Eisenhower himself has accepted responsibility for U. S. intelligence activities. Khrushchev at first had attempted to separate Eisenhower—whom he has pictured in the past as a man of peace—from the plane incident and to center indignation against the U. S. State Department and military.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter arrived Friday for a series of conferences with the Western foreign ministers and his American staff.

Stroudsburgs Project

New York Firm Unofficial Low Bidder On Flood Work

AN UNOFFICIAL low bid of $1,473,593 was received by the State Forest and Waters Department yesterday for construction of a flood control project on the Brodhead and McMichaels Creeks in the Stroudsburgs.

The apparent low bidder of the project was Elmhurst Construction Co., Corona, N.Y.

C. H. McConnell, head of flood control projects of the State Department of Forest and Waters said, "The project is the largest local flood control plan ever undertaken by the Commonwealth."

He added, "It is one of seven major permanent flood protection jobs for northeastern Pennsylvania to be built by the department as a result of the 1955 floods."

On Brodhead Creek the work will extend from the Little League baseball field, in East Stroudsburg, downstream to the new Stroudsburg Thruway. Dredging will continue another 2,100 feet past the Thruway bridge.

68 Involved
On the McMichaels Creek, work will start at the Fifth St. Bridge and extend downstream to the junction with the Brodhead Creek.

On the East Stroudsburg side of the Brodhead Creek there are 68 properties involved in right-of-way privileges with 33 owners having agreed to the proposal.

Several surveys were made by Edward C. Hess, Monroe County Engineer, and submitted to the authorities for approval.

Other Bids
Other bids for the project received were Bucks and Donahue, Newark, N.J., $1,487,719.50;

The plan got underway shortly after the flood in 1955 when more than 60 persons lost their lives and damage in the millions of dollars resulted from the almost two-mile wide stream of water passing through the Stroudsburgs.

Several surveys were made by Edward C. Hess, Monroe County Engineer, and submitted to the authorities for approval.

Soviet Calls Off Goodwill Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union suddenly called off an American goodwill visit by its air force chief Friday in another slap at the United States for sending spy planes over Soviet territory.

The newest Kremlin move, on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure for the summit conference in Paris, deepened the gloom about prospects for easing East-West tension.

Top administration officials refused, however, to view it as a sign Eisenhower would have to cancel his trip to the Soviet Union or that the East-West parley in Paris would turn into a propaganda circus.

These other developments added to the continuing furor over the spy plane incident:

1. The Soviet Union fired protests to Turkey, Norway and Pakistan, claiming their air bases have been used by U. S. spy planes.

2. Norway officially protested to the United States on the ground that the plane downed over the Soviet Union May 1 might have been heading for a Norwegian base at Bodø as Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev claims. Informal sources in Oslo said U. S. authorities had conceded Khrushchev was correct.

3. Pakistan President Mohamed Ayub Khan said in London his government would complain officially too if it turns out the spy plane took off from a Pakistan air base as Khrushchev alleges.

4. Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) said the spy plane incident casts a shadow over the availability of some of this country's air bases abroad. During debate on a military construction bill, Case told the Senate "Our military posture has been built around certain deployments in overseas bases and the present situation inevitably will affect the availability of some of those bases."

5. Eisenhower canceled a farewell statement he had planned to make to the nation just before leaving for the Paris summit talks Saturday evening. The White House said he had just changed his mind.

To Have Support
A number of senators, in floor speeches, assured Eisenhower he will have bipartisan support of the nation in his negotiations with Khrushchev.

The Soviet chief air marshal, K. A. Vershinin, said in a polite letter he was postponing his U. S. trip, due to begin Saturday, because "at the present time unfavorable circumstances have been created." Vershinin, writing to Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White, did not directly mention the spy flights but said he has reconsidered his tour "in connection with the recent events known to you."

20 Million Moslems In Mourn Aly

PARIS (AP) — The 20 million Moslems of Asia and Africa went into mourning Friday for Prince Ali Khan.

The playboy diplomat's son, Aga Khan IV, spiritual leader of the Ismailis, arrived from London to make funeral arrangements. Sources close to the family said

Aly, killed Thursday night in the collision of his sports car and another automobile, probably will be buried somewhere in the Middle East.

The Aga Khan's Supreme Council in Karachi, Pakistan, telegraphed the young ruler asking that his father be buried there. All business houses in Karachi and other cities in Moslem Pakistan were closed and the entire Ismailia community in Pakistan went into mourning.

Half Staff
The Pakistani flag was flown at half staff in that nation for Aly, who was its permanent representative at the United Nations. The U. N. flew its blue and white flag at half staff at New York headquarters.

In London, where he was attending a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers, President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan issued a statement expressing shock at Aly's death and praising his sportsmanship and friendliness.

Aly's other son, Prince Amyn, 22, went into seclusion at Harvard University, where he is a student, before flying to Europe.

Aly's body was removed from the suburban hospital where he died to his suburban apartment.

Facial Cut
Bettina, a former fashion model who has been Aly's companion for several years, was taken to his apartment in an ambulance. She was with the 48-year-old prince at the time of the accident and suffered a deep facial cut.

Police investigating the accident said the two autos collided head on. Indications were that neither auto was traveling fast.

Herve Bichaton, driver of the second car, was questioned at length by police. No charges have been filed. He escaped with minor injuries.

Aly was driving at the time of the accident. He and Bettina were on their way to a dinner party. Aly Khan's chauffeur sat in the back seat. He also had only minor injuries.

The Soviet government deems it necessary to warn that if such provocations are repeated from the territory of Turkey, it will be compelled to take proper retaliatory measures," said the note to that government.

"It is common knowledge that the Soviet Union has means to render harmless, if necessary, the war bases used for aggressive actions against the Soviet Union."

Been Warned
The note added that Turkey had been warned before when Soviet air space was violated by foreign planes and balloons from Turkish territory.

To Pakistan, Moscow declared: "This flight has again confirmed with ample clarity what a dangerous policy the Pakistani government pursues by continuing to allow the use of its territory by foreign armed forces. The Soviet government warns that in case such actions are repeated from Pakistani territory it will be compelled to take proper retaliatory measures."

The Soviet also warned Pakistan that it had the means of making the offending bases "harmless."

Three Nations Accused As U.S. Mates

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union in simultaneous notes accused Norway, Turkey and Pakistan Friday night of being partners of the United States in the ill-fated spy plane case of Francis G. Powers and threatened retaliatory measures. Norway about the same time protested to the United States over becoming involved in spy plane repercussions.

The notes charged that Powers' high-altitude reconnaissance U2 plane was based at Incirlik, Turkey, took off on its cross-Soviet Union mission from Peshawar, Pakistan, and intended to land in Bodø, Norway. The notes threatened destruction of the bases.

Norway's foreign minister, Halvard Lange, in the protest to the United States, said he had reason to believe that the plane was headed for Bodø. He reacted sharply to the Soviet threats.

Norwegians Deny
Norwegian Premier Einar Gerhardsen, in a dinner speech to a delegation from the Supreme Soviet, or Parliament, in Oslo denied that the Norwegian government participated in the U2 incident.

"Norwegian territory never will be permitted to be used as a base for aggressive actions against the Soviet Union," he declared.

Pakistan also indicated that it will protest to the United States if it develops that a Pakistan base was used for the spy flight.

The note to Norway was released by the Norwegian Foreign Ministry. Tass, official Soviet news agency, in broadcasts from Moscow disclosed the text of similarly worded notes to Turkey and Pakistan.

"The Soviet government deems it necessary to warn that if such provocations are repeated from the territory of Turkey, it will be compelled to take proper retaliatory measures," said the note to that government.

Spiritual Thought Is Message

WHY spiritual thought is essential to the peace and progress of mankind will be explained at Christian Science services Sunday by the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals."

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon is the Golden Text from Romans (8:6): "To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" of which Mary Baker Eddy is the author will be read (256:1-5): "Progress takes off human shackles. The finite must yield to the infinite. Advancing to a higher plane of action, thought rises from the material sense to the spiritual, from the scholastic to the inspirational, and from the mortal to the immortal."

One of the opening Bible passages to be read states (Ps. 37:37): "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

An invitation is extended to all to attend the services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Stroudsburg, Monroe and Eighth Sts. at 11 a.m.

Ancient Texts Sermon Title

"THE ANCIENT Texts", second in a series on the nature and use of Scripture, will be the title of the sermon to be preached by the Rev. Francis M. Seely at the 11 a.m. worship service at the Church of the Mountain, Delaware Water Gap. The talk will deal with the history of some of the ancient copies of the Bible as they affect modern versions.

The Junior and Senior High Westminster Fellowships will leave the manse a 6:30 Sunday evening. "Can You Test Your Christianity?" Will be the topic for discussion in the Senior High Fellowship led by Charlotte Wakefield of the Faith Committee.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, is at 9:45 a.m.

Final Beatitude Told

By Newman Campbell
THE FINAL Beatitude given by Christ in His Sermon on the Mount is, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Then He says: "Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake. Rejoice, and be exceeding glad; for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you."—Matthew 5:10-12.

Yes, the prophets were persecuted, and many are the people of the world since then who have suffered tortures for Christ's sake. Thankful we must be that in most countries of our modern world there are few, if any, that suffer for their religious beliefs.

The Rev. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, editor and commentator of Peloubet's Select Notes, tells us, "We are not sure of the exact location where the Sermon on the Mount was delivered except that it was in Galilee, where also the parables of Matthew 13 were uttered."

"Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his saviour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men."—Matthew 5:13.

Might not this mean that those of us who profess to believe in God often let words that we neglect the religion we profess and fail to follow Christ's teaching in our lives? Jesus lived His life on earth blameless, and it was said of Him, "No man spake as this Man."

"Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house."

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."—Matthew 5:14-16.

This does not mean that we should boast of our good deeds, but that we should so live that others may say of us that we are good people because we practice Jesus' teachings.

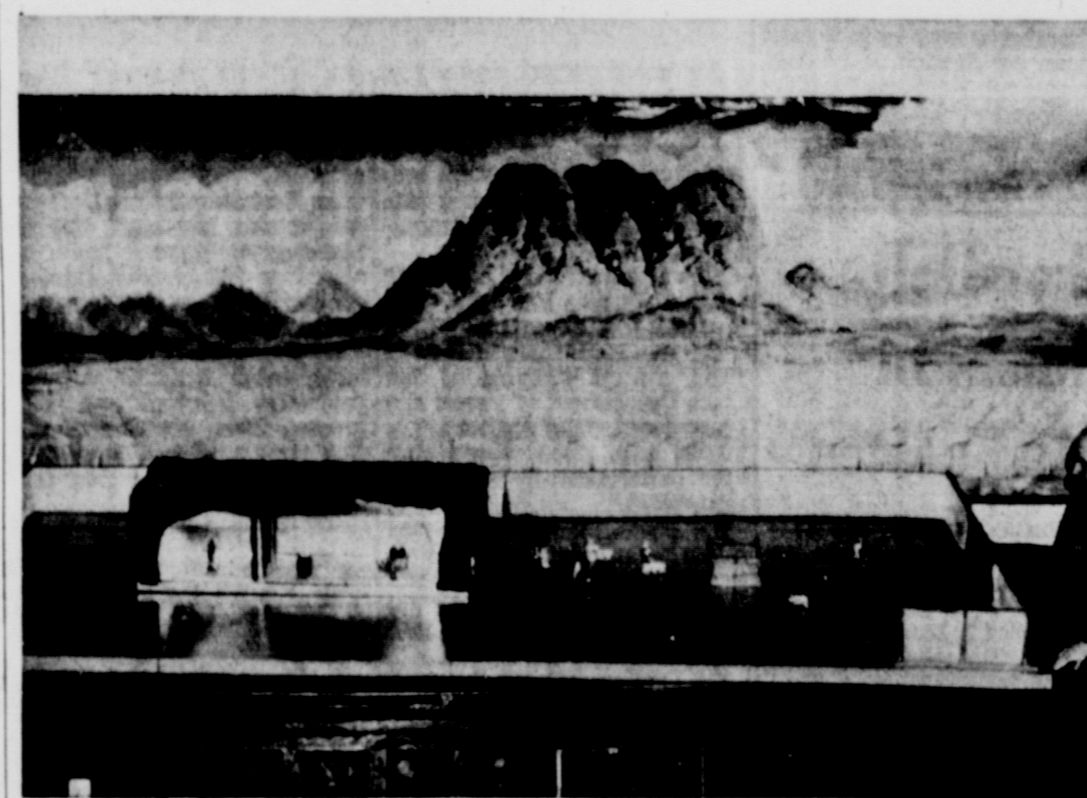

Of the parables of the woman leaving bread and the man who sowed the grain of seed in the earth we do not have space in this lesson; the teachers, of course, should comment on them.

We must, however, include Christ's teaching on Christian behavior in being generous to those in need, and our attitude towards those who are our enemies.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you: That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for He maketh His sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust. For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? . . . Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."—Matthew 5:43-48.

That may be the most difficult of all Christ's teaching for us to obey, but with His help, we must strive to do as He would have us.

FOUR STRINGS

Only four strings! But these four strings offer endless possibilities of tone and harmony. They open to man new horizons of beauty and happiness.

And yet, improperly played, these four strings can bring forth unbelievable discord!

There are four strings in life — with similar possibilities. Mind . . . Character . . . Courage . . . Faith!

The truths that fill our minds, the ideals that mold our character, the purposes to which our courage is given, the realities in which we believe; these can fill our lives with rich beauty and happiness or drab ugliness and sorrow.

For centuries the Church has been the maestro of these strings of life — helping men to bring from their own souls the harmony and beauty God has put there.

You can find music in everyday living through participation in the work of the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Safe Drivers

"Eighty-five per cent of Pennsylvania's motorists have been consistently operating within the law and without mishaps."

This statement by O. D. Shipley, state commissioner of traffic safety, was tucked away in a recent speech.

It went almost unnoticed because of the startling magnitude of accident statistics which he quoted.

But we reprint it here, because these 85 drivers out of every hundred deserve a salute.

They are the backbone of the state's safety program. They prove that most motorists are careful and painstaking in the operation of their cars. They save a bad situation from becoming chaotic.

If 85 per cent of our drivers are careful and law-abiding, then our worry really stems only from the conduct of the fringe 15 per cent.

This means most of us have little reason to resist a tightening of traffic regulations. We won't be the target.

Tighter enforcement will be aimed at controlling the 15 per cent who seem to be almost chronically disposed toward recklessness, and whose driving puts so many innocent motorists in jeopardy.

Prospects At Summit

The summit meeting on which some statesmen and many of the world's common people have built high hopes will be opened in Paris on Monday, just two days from now.

The Big Four leaders will be assembling in the shadow of the U-2 incident, a shadow made blacker by the warlike talk of Nikita Khrushchev. The man in the street is likely to assume that the hopes that the summit meeting would produce the greatly desired "relaxation of tensions" have been blighted.

Most western statesmen do not seem to share this assumption. Neither, apparently, does Nikita Khrushchev; Washington reports note that each warlike blast from Khrushchev is followed by a concerted effort by Soviet diplomats to press the argument that there must be no thought of abandoning the attempt to reach agreements at the summit.

It is quite plain to men with long experience in dealing with Khrushchev and his crew that the Russian Communist leaders are not morally outraged by the discovery that they have been spied upon. To them, espionage is a normal business of government.

The belligerent talk is to be discounted, therefore, as part of the tactics of bargaining, aimed at bringing the West to the bargaining table in a mood of embarrassment.

If this reading of the situation is correct, as careful students of Russia believe, the Russian attitude at the summit meeting will not have been changed one whit by the U-2 incident.

The only question-mark hangs over the attitude of the West, and apparently there is no disposition anywhere to cave in because of Russian bluster.

The Pennsylvania Story

Watershed Grants Rise

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's Governor Lawrence may be in his seventies but the fact apparently doesn't prevent him from taking something more than a youthful or jet-age look at contemporary living.

Seventy-year-old David Leo Lawrence not only "looks" at mid-20th century living — he lives it as well. His current trip abroad illustrates the point.

When he departed the first of May (he's due back May 31) he left New York's International Airport on his first major jet flight. . . As to whether he enjoyed the trip by jet, perhaps the best answer can be found in the comment offered by his personal secretary, Otis Morse, when queried this week by this reporter:

"Well, to be quite about it, the Governor 'fell in love' with that jet flight — so much so in fact, that when he returns the end of the month he will be returning by jet rather than the more conventional propeller-type plane as planned originally."

Incidentally Mr. Lawrence, notwithstanding his age, has turned out to be one of Pennsylvania's most "flying" Governors — if not "the" most. . . Whenever a trip can be made by plane, it's off to the airport for amazingly brisk, ever-moving David L. Lawrence.

As a point of side interest. . . Even though the Governor is scheduled to be absent the entire month of May, "affairs of state" are not at a dead end. . . Little known perhaps is the fact that he freely "burned the midnight oil" getting foreseeable pressing matters taken care of before his departure.

For up-to-the-minute developments needing his attention there are overseas phones and cables. . . Mailed "report pouches" go to him daily from his office here on Capitol Hill, including batches of newspaper clippings to keep him up to date.

The Annual "Siege" — Each year around this time what has become known as "the annual siege" takes place on Capitol Hill as school kids from all over Pennsylvania descend upon "their" Capitol Hill here in Harrisburg.

In recent years — more particularly since World War II — Harrisburg has turned more and more into a mecca for visiting high school students. . . They come in bus loads — orange school buses and chartered commercial buses — to swarm over Capitol Hill like locusts.

They're not on the loose by any means. . . In the first place teachers of course accompany the kids, but secondly special tours of Capitol Hill are conducted by a corps of professional guides (specially hired by the state) who know every nook and cranny and what is important to see.

Veterans around Capitol Hill recall that it wasn't too many years ago that school trips to Harrisburg were indeed the "unusual" . . . Today, with the tremendous expansion of state government and an obvious growing awareness of its key importance in everyday living, the "jog to Harrisburg" apparently is fast replacing the heretofore popular trips to Washington.

Even the squirrels and pigeons in Capitol Park by now have become accustomed to the squawking and squealing of school kids on tour!

Judicial "Chow Line" — Back in mid-March the Governor held the regular Superior Court reception and dinner — an affair traditionally in the past held at the old brownstone Executive Mansion on Harrisburg's Front Street overlooking the river.

This year however, with the mansion then under the auctioneer's hammer, the affair was held in the downtown Penn Harris Hotel. . . Any idea what it cost you taxpayers?

According to a bill submitted for payment to the State Auditor General's Department the tab rounded out to $747 for "83 dinners" — or $9 per person. . . High? It may seem so, but in actuality it is estimated that it would have cost more had the dinner been staged at the old brownstone mansion — if all costs are included.

'Maybe I'll Do A Little Spying Of My Own!'

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Channel 3 Case

Every air channel is the property of the people of the United States and is under the control of Congress through the Federal Communications Commission which was created for that purpose. The networks are supply enterprises which sell programs to local radio and TV companies, although it is true that they do own some stations.

The owner of a station owns the real estate and the physical property of the station. The owner has no vested right in the channel, the right to use which is issued by the FCC in the form of a license.

By precedent and as a practical matter, licenses are generally renewed, the assumption being if the conduct of a station were satisfactory, the license would be renewed and it generally is.

It is this renewal without examination which has led to the belief that a vested interest exists in the license.

Along comes the Philco Broadcasting Co. of Philadelphia to apply for Channel Three, a TV Station WRCV-TV, now operated by the National Broadcasting Co. Philco makes this application on the grounds that under NBC management, less than seven per cent of broadcast time on this station is allotted to local live programs of any description. Philco offers to provide 20 per cent of its time to local live programs.

This raises a very interesting question as to whether TV exists for service to the community or as a commercial venture to earn profits for its owners in disregard of the fact that the channels are publicly owned and should be available for public service.

Should Philco best NBC in this action, it could have a revolutionary effect upon the radio and television industry. If Philco loses, it could establish the precedent that there is a vested interest in the license.

A great fuss has been made over payola in this medium, the assumption being that some of the so-called disk jockeys make large or small sums pushing certain records or by mentioning items which were not advertised by contract with the owners of the station.

While the commission of these acts is not criminal and no one has thus far gone to prison for them, several disk jockeys have lost their jobs and undoubtedly are ruined.

On the other hand, little or nothing has been said about radio or TV stations employing a public facility improperly.

Some radio stations have little on them but news snippets, weather reports and endless rock-n-roll or other musical abominations. Some TV stations are mere push button affairs, running through network material, murder after murder, with occasional news.

The question of payola is by no means as serious as the question of using stations without ample provision for public services. This is a direct violation of every license issued.

What does payola amount to? It is that a disk jockey either plays records in which he has an interest or a company pays him to push certain records. The music usually played by these disk jockeys, whether affected by payola or not, is a criminal act on its own. It is some kind of brain-washing or better still, brain-destroying.

But when the stations provide no public services, they usurp more than their licenses entitle them to. Frederick W. Ford, Chairman of the FCC, said in a speech:

" . . . Requests for time by local groups to bring matters of importance to the attention of the community are certainly indications of public need. The broadcaster is charged with responding sympathetically to such requests and to make available a reasonable amount of broadcast time for these purposes. I fail to see how an operation can be in the interest of the public when such requests for time are consistently ignored or turned down because of discrimination to the commercial schedule."

This is the gist of the issue that Philco has raised against the NBC and it will be of public interest to see what the FCC DOES WITH IT.

Of course, the FCC can delay consideration of this application bureaucratically until some arrangement is made between Philco and the NBC. But that is not in the public interest.

What is in the public interest is that the FCC should determine how much time should be devoted to live community programs and what percentage of that time should be at hours when people listen.

The Allen-Scott Report

U-2 Eyed Defenses

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Hundreds of massive rocket and missile anti-aircraft centers are being built by Russia to counter the nuclear-armed jet bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command — the striking force on which the free world mainly depends to deter the Red rulers from attempting a Pearl Harbor-type surprise attack.

The exact location of many of these giant and costly Soviet defenses, particularly in major industrial areas, is now known. That detailed information, of vital importance to this country and the other NATO powers, was obtained through a series of U-2 jet reconnaissance flights in the past six months.

This was disclosed by Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles in the closely-guarded conference he and Secretary Christian Herter held with congressional leaders while the State department chief said little, Dulles was unusually frank; speaking more freely and fully than he had ever done before.

Other publishable highlights of this exceptionally revealing discussion are:

SAC's striking power is deemed so effective by Russia that around 20 percent of its huge military budget is being spent on anti-aircraft defenses. Latest of the weapons of these massive defensive centers is the SA-4 surface-to-air missile — with the altitude, range and destructive capabilities of the Army's NIKE-HERCULES.

Still undetermined is whether these large and numerous anti-aircraft defenses are being equipped with the SA-6 — an anti-missile missile the Soviet is known to have in production.

More than 10,000 jet interceptors, armed with air-to-air rockets, are part of these anti-aircraft defenses.

There is no evidence of "defection" on the part of pilot Francis Powers. Dulles' reply to a direct question on this was, "I would say that is highly unlikely. He is a man of excellent reputation, who has had extensive experience in flying and Intelligence work."

Calculated Risk — Through-out their conference with the congressional leaders, CIA Director Dulles and Secretary Herter firmly insisted reconnaissance flights over Russia are essential for the security of the U.S.

Dulles pointed out that Soviet military forces and defenses are "three or four times as strong as ours," and it is vital to learn everything possible about them. "If we didn't do that," said Dulles, "I am quite certain that you gentlemen would consider me derelict in my duty. Every time we locate a Russian anti-aircraft base, we make SAC that much more effective. In the event of war, it is such intelligence that will save the lives and bombers of many SAC squadrons."

"I hold that the risks we are taking are a small price to pay to accomplish that."

A hushed silence followed this blunt pronouncement. When one spoke up, Dulles continued: "We have known for some time that the Soviet air defense command is absorbing around 20 percent of their huge military budget. But it took these U-2 reconnaissance flights to establish what they are spending all this money for. These flights pinpointed the location of numerous massive anti-aircraft centers, and indicated the sites of a great many more."

"These missions were a risk. We were fully aware of that. But we feel they were a risk that justified even an international incident."

In response to questions, Dulles stated that most of the U-2 reconnaissance flights have been between Turkey and Pakistan. Also that these missions have been helpful in providing information regarding Russian long-range missiles.

"We have had great difficulty in locating their ICBM bases," said Dulles, "and the U-2 flights have helped considerably in that regard. They have enabled us to develop what we consider a sound estimate that the Soviet now has about 100 of these bases, either operational or under construction."

"We also have information that the SA-6 anti-missile missile is now in production and being installed in key anti-aircraft defense centers. That is of the utmost importance to SAC, and the only way we can find that out is by reconnaissance flights."

"That means taking a risk, but we consider it a risk worth taking."

None of the congressional leaders challenged that blunt declaration.

Other Flights—The Air Force is using U-2 jets to test new and highly secret missile detection equipment. The planes are making these test flights over "friendly countries" in Europe, with their full knowledge and approval. . . . Senator Styles Bridges, N. H., chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, at the weekly conference of congressional leaders with President Eisenhower, protested the State Department's frank admissions about the reconnaissance flights over Russia. Bridges contended, "We shouldn't have acknowledged anything." The President disagreed, adding solemnly, "I think I can truthfully say this: I have made since I've been in the White House."

Reports From Congress

Air-Minded

By Congressional Quarterly

Washington — Over $175 million in federal money already has been obligated to help pay for the development of 216 watershed projects in the six years since the program began. Even more will be obligated in years to come.

This was the recent report of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service as it summarized the program's activity since 1954, when the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act was passed. The report said the 216 projects, which involve a total of 12.6 million acres within the continental United States, would cost $275 million when completed, with the U.S. paying $175 million and states and localities the rest. Each project takes from five to 10 years to complete.

Watershed Defined — Because all land falls within some watershed, watersheds offer a natural beginning for the development of water resources and control. The Soil Conservation Service describes a watershed as a geographical area in which the water from all streams eventually flows into one central stream or river.

Thus all water flowing through the mouth of the Mississippi River at New Orleans, La., comes from the same giant watershed, but there are many smaller watersheds within that area (the Ohio and Missouri River basins, for instance), which, although part of the Mississippi River watershed, are not part of each other. Each of those, in turn, contains smaller, local watersheds.

Through the development of upstream reservoirs, flooding can be controlled or eliminated. Irrigation projects developed, municipal and industrial water supplies augmented and fish and wildlife refuges established. The Federal Government is primarily interested in flood control and for this it pays the entire cost, as well as the rest of

The individual state with the most money obligated was Texas, which had 20 projects covering two million acres at a federal-local cost of $46.3 million. Oklahoma was second, with $24.7 million for 10 projects involving 1.1 million acres.

Five states had no projects at all approved: Alaska, Hawaii, Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island.

Pennsylvania Projects—Pennsylvania, which ranks 14th in the amount of money obligated for watershed projects, as of April 1 had four projects accepted for construction by the Soil Conservation Service. When these projects are completed they will involve a total of 169,000 acres and will cost approximately $6,014,400. Since the program began in 1954, Pennsylvania has submitted 23 applications involving 1,411,000 acres of which 11 projects involving 909 acres have been accepted for further planning.

Congressional Quiz

Transportation

By Congressional Quarterly

This quiz tests your knowledge of federal involvement in the transportation industry. Try for four correct answers.

Q—Which of the following federal agencies do not have jurisdiction over some branch of the U. S. transportation industry? (a) FAA; (b) ICC; (c) FCC; (d) ICA?

A—(c) and (d). The Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) deals with the aviation industry; the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), with railroads and trucking; the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), with radio and television broadcasting; and the International Cooperation Administration (ICA), with the Mutual Security Program.

Q—"Piggyback" service refers to (a) railroads; (b) aviation; (c) shipping?

A—(a). Railroads haul loaded trucks on flatcars.

Q—True or false: The 41,000-mile National Interstate and Defense Highway System is paid for entirely by the Federal Government?

A—False. The Federal Government pays 90 percent of the costs, the states pay 10 percent.

Q—The House recently passed a bill to permit the "dual-rate" system to continue in effect for another year. This refers to freight carried by (a) trucks; (b) airplanes; (c) ships?

A—(c). Under the dual-rate system, steamship firms associated in so-called steamship conferences charge lower rates to customers agreeing to ship exclusively through members of the conference. The Supreme Court in 1958 declared this illegal, but Congress, pending study, has permitted it to continue by special legislation.

Q—True or false: Railroads are free to shut down commuter lines whenever they wish?

A—False. The ICC can order a railroad to continue a commuter line in operation even if it is unprofitable. The railroads are fighting legislation that would make it harder for them to drop a commuter line.

Q—Can you match three of following inventors with transportation achievements?

- (1) Charles E. Duryea
- (2) Wright Brothers
- (3) Peter Cooper
- (4) John Fitch
- (5) Van Depoel and Sprague

- (a) Steamboat
- (b) Locomotive
- (c) Automobile
- (d) Airplane
- (e) Electric trolley

A—Duryea, gasoline auto, 1892; Wright brothers, airplane with motor, 1903; Cooper, locomotive, 1830; Fitch, experimental steamboat, 1807; Van Depoel and Sprague, electric trolley, 1884-1887.

PM Crowning Today Scout Cavalcade Largest, Most Varied In History

THE OPENING of the Cavalcade of Scouting last night presented the largest and most varied event ever presented by the Delaware Valley Council. The show, had the flavor of a County Fair.

It will be continued today from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the Blue Valley Farm Show grounds on the Bangor - Pen Argyl highway.

The Cavalcade combined a dozen activities and was a real panorama of Scouting in action, depicting through live exhibits, the broad scope of the program the boy experiences from the time he becomes a Cub Scout at eight years of age, until he goes through Exploring for high-school age boys.

There was a total of 70 booth exhibits, 40 of them in the main building and 30 in a 80' x 35' circus tent. Scouts manned each booth during the hours of the show, demonstrating the particular subject they are exhibiting. Subjects exhibited include rope making, first aid, handicraft, forestry, electronics, printing, geology, Cubbing Achievements, leatherwork — each one related to some point of the Scout advancement trail.

Explorer Post 27 of Calvary Methodist Church, Easton, in cooperation with the Northampton County Civil Defense, displayed a typical Fallout Shelter for a home.

All booth exhibits will be judged by members of the commissioner staff, and proficiency ribbons awarded those who qualify for prescribed standards. In another area of the FRED Storm, 22, whose address was listed as Stroudsburg RD 1, and Mt. Pocono, yesterday paid $64 in fines and costs on charges of disorderly conduct, reckless driving and driving too fast for conditions.

Storm waived a hearing on the charges before Peace Justice Marshall Neyhart of East Stroudsburg.

He was charged with being involved in two traffic accidents Thursday.

Police said Storm's car hit the rear of a vehicle driven by Rev. William L. Petrovic, Sunnybrook Bible Camp, East Stroudsburg, RD 2, on N. Courtland St.

After giving his name and license number to Rev. Petrovic, police said, Storm drove south to King St. and while attempting to pass a car driven by Constable C. Walter Counterman of East Stroudsburg's Sixth Ward, Storm's car struck an embankment, swerved in front of Counterman's car, left the road and hit the porch of a home owned by Mrs. Lizzie M. Marean at 415 Shook Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Deiter, East Stroudsburg RD 2, passengers in Storm's car, complained of minor injuries and were taken home by Counterman, who then took Storm to police headquarters.

Extra Panel Called In Marrs Trial

ELEVEN members of a 21-member special jury panel were examined and dismissed in the trial of Stanley Marrs for murder at Belvidere, N. J., yesterday.

The emergency panel was called after only six of the required 14 jurors were selected from the regular panel.

Of the 11 dismissed yesterday, defense and prosecution used one peremptory challenge each and eight were dismissed by consent or because they said they opposed capital punishment.

The trial is being held before Warren County Judge Saul N. Schechter.

Marrs is charged with the murder of Lester Silverman, 50, Blairstown department store owner, last Nov. 25 during a robbery.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

If the sun will rise bright and early and stay out all day it will be shining on some mighty happy and relieved people today.

On Mrs. Ira Nagler and her 700 assorted Girl Scouts and Brownies due to hold their rally at Promised Land; on the Miller and her Miss Pocono Mountains, past and future; on all the other people involved in the projects; and, oh boy, oh boy, on me.

Somehow I'm feeling a little mouldy around the edges, sort of bleached-out like something that had been living under a stone and is in need of a good airing.

In fact all of us could do with a nice long day in the country, seems as if. Students up to their ears in term papers and preparing for exams; teachers grimly determined to keep the learning process going if they have to hand-crank the kids' minds; preschoolers and their mommies cooped up for a solid week; community leaders and all their annual meetings.

However, rain or shine, the longest day is still ahead for the parents of East Stroudsburg's prom-bound Juniors and Seniors. The parents, determined to make the party after the prom as safe—if not as sane—as possible, are giving it for them from 1 to 5 a.m.

Chaperoning in shifts, I presume, and ending up with breakfast. It is a noble enterprise, but I remember a similar attempt not so many years ago when—well, it's wait and compare notes, afterward, shall we? That is, if anybody is speaking to anybody by that time. Particularly the pupae who somehow never are quite so sympathetic about the need to stay up all night, any way.

Grandson of Local Woman Working at Jungle Hospital With Dr. Albert Schweitzer

To work with Dr. Albert Schweitzer, personally, in the jungles of Africa—is, indeed, a most rare opportunity for me, not only to serve, but also to learn much from this very great doctor." Wrote Dr. Steven Spence, of Swatara, from Lambarene to his grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Rugh, Mount Pocono.

Young Dr. Spencer who spent his internship in Arizona, working with the Navajo Indians, was working at the African Brothers Clinic in Rochester, Minn. when the chance came for him to go to Africa to work for six months with Dr. Schweitzer.

He flew there two weeks ago and in a letter to his grandmother, reports: "I had hoped for years that someday I might have an opportunity to visit Dr. Schweitzer's hospital in the African jungle and to my great surprise that opportunity has come. I am now seeing at first hand all of the things that I have heard and read about!

They are among the pioneer resort operators in the mountain region associated with Spruce Mountain House since it was opened by Mr. Price's father, the late Townsend Price. He is also one of the most ardent sportsmen of the area, and one of its most successful hunters and fishermen.

Plans for a gathering of all the Price clan, which numbers more than 100, were discarded, since Mr. Price is still recuperating from a recent illness. However, all of the children were home with their families: Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Price, Bound Brook, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Reeve C. Clearview PTA Names Mrs. Lindroth

Mrs. Richard Lindroth was re-elected as president of the Clearview Parent-Teachers Assn. at the closing meeting of the year with Mrs. Elwood German, past president in charge of the installation. Lisa Breslauer is the treasurer; Betty Miller, vice president; and Georgianna Stright, secretary.

A tape, narrated by Robert Oliver, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Mental Health Assn., was presented by Miss Marie Brown of the laboratory school at State College, East Stroudsburg, a member of the local Mental Health Assn.

The tape, an actual interview with Billy, a 12-year-old, mentally-distressed child and his attending therapist at the Oakburn Hospital, recorded the hostility often felt by children but carried to a dangerous degree by Billy, who admitted that he planned to destroy the hospital by fire, shoot his mother and sister, and keep his father as his slave for punishment.

The tape stressed the fact that early attention and guidance is important in helping the child to become a good and respected citizen, and the need for more therapists to assist the mentally disturbed child.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Betty Phillips, publicity chairman, presented Mrs. Lindroth with a scrap book containing clippings of the important events at Clearview during the past year.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Lillian Wagner's fifth grade.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store"

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

'ROUND AND ABOUT WYCKOFF'S

In the center aisle: Peter Heiden, distinguished artist of the Pocono area, home again from a visit of some weeks with his 90 year old mother in Germany. And what a coincidence that her home should be only 7 miles from that of Johann Faulstich, the German chemist whom I met some months ago, and who, when he visited here, was so impressed by Heiden's paintings. Peter reports a pleasant telephone visit with him . . . Mrs. Horace Levy, back once again from the south for a summer stay among her many local friends—and kind enough to say that Bobby Westbrook's column and mine are the first two things she reads when the Daily Record arrives . . . Hannah Shupp, only too happy to point out the new shipment of Pennsburg pottery in our gift department—an attractive array of pie plates, ash trays, and such, wonderful for gifting a prospective June bride . . . Two more "lovelies" visiting our store recently were

RUTH POPKIN and RHODA WEITZMAN

Ruth Popkin and Rhoda Weitzman. Ruth is a pretty titian haired young matron who will be a model in this year's Hadasah-Wyckoff fashion show on Wednesday evening, June 22, at Tamiment. Rhoda, as gifted as she is attractive, was busy sketching the design to appear on the cover of the program for that big occasion. Be with us, won't you?

THE MAIL ARRIVES . . .

One letter, from Mrs. Alexander Musdie, has a copy of a recent column enclosed, and suggests that maybe the "whatzit" from our gift department which I described was a new-fangled Aladdin's Lamp. THAT I would approve. It would be wonderful to think one need only summon a genie, make a wish, and have it come true. But now we know what the thing is, and believe me it's not that romantic at all. Seems you brew tea in another kettle, then fill the whatzit through the holes in the bottom. It won't pour from the spout while you do this, though why I'll never know. Then you turn it upright, and serve from the spout. Complicated? Maybe—but it sure would be an ice-breaker conversationally . . . Letters come too from Mrs. E. R. Bush, secretary of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's church, thanking Wyckoff's for its part in the recent highly successful fashion show; from Mrs. Victor Taylor who is still in Virginia, and is always so thoughtful in remembering her innumerable local friends; from Fritzie Green, Hadasah president who says a belated "Happy Birthday" which isn't really belated at all since, as she points out, every day begins a brand new year for us all, and from Mrs. Gertrude Roberts Rugh, of Swiftwater, who tells me she's been nursing a sprained knee, but otherwise feels wonderful and will soon be 81. "But I don't believe it," she writes. (Frankly, neither do I—but it's wonderful!)

TODAY is the last of the HOME ECONOMICS BONUS DAYS in our stores of the Stroudsburgs. I think all of us should cheer the young people and their teachers for their sewing, baking, and other leisure hour projects, and hope they'll have wonderful futures in the happiest and loveliest of homes.

Provide A Fourth

Dear Abby: My husband's best friend is in love with me. He has never touched me or said a thing suggestive to me, but I know it as sure as I am living. It is so apparent that even my mother noticed it. We are all in our thirties. This friend has never married.

I love my husband and children very much, Abby, and I don't want anything to happen to my marriage. This man works with my husband, and my husband brings him home for dinner very often. The children love him, and he adores them. Is it wrong to be too kind to people, Abby? How do I discourage him? When he looks at me I see desire in his eyes. I am not mistaken. A woman knows those things. Help me, please. I am a bundle of nerves over this. I've never talked to my husband about it. He doesn't suspect a thing.

Dear Bundles: Tell your husband that when he invites his friend to the house for dinner, he should ask him to bring a lady friend of his own. Or else you invite one.

Dear Abby: When I was growing up my parents thought it was impolite for children to call adults by their first names. As a result I was told that this was "Aunt Joan and Uncle Bill" and "Aunt Polly and Uncle Al". Years later I learned that these people were not my real aunts and uncles at all—just good friends of my parents. It was terribly confusing.

I am raising children now, and I too feel that they shouldn't call adults by their first names, but I don't want to start that "Aunt Joan and Uncle Bill" business. Have you or your readers any suggestions? "Mr. and Mrs." is too formal.

Young Mother

Dear Young Mother: I agree that children shouldn't call adults by their first names. But "Mr. and Mrs." denotes respect—not formality.

Dear Abby: I have a daughter-in-law who has two Mexican Chihuahuas dogs and every time she comes to my house she brings them. I don't mind dogs as a rule, but these two look like a pair of skinned rats and I detest them. She lets them run all over the living room and my sofa covering is already full of snags from their sharp claws. I have a six-year-old boy, and when my daughter-in-law comes with her dogs I have to ask him to stay in his bedroom because the dogs are jealous of him and they keep barking until he leaves. How should I tell her I like to have her visit me, but to please leave the dogs home?

Mother-in-law

Dear Mother-in-Law: Tell her that it is unfair to your son to be confined to his bedroom because she and her dogs are visiting. Say it in a friendly way—but say it.

Confidential To "In Love With A Man Who Has Two Hearts": He wants to have his cake and eat it, too. He hasn't "two hearts"—he has two hats: One to talk through.

"What's your problem?" Write Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know", send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Carolyn Creighton acted as the master of ceremonies. The speaker of the occasion was the Rev. Bert Tapley, pastor of Mackey Memorial Baptist Church. His topic was: "What We Owe Our Mothers."

Poem, Selections

Ann Hallett read a poem. There were selections by Elda-Mae Hildenbrand; piano and organ duets by Antonio Turzto and Roger Bet; accordion solos by Ralph Romano; and singing by the Twelve Notes, Blaine Shover, director and Antonio Turzto, accompanist.

A procession of the class into the auditorium, with Paul-ette Martin as the organist, opened the assembly. It concluded with the benediction by the Rev. Tapley and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Heart Committee Notes Overweight Is A Hazard

DOES overweight cause heart disease?
A "yes" or "no" answer cannot be given to this question, says the Monroe County Heart Committee.

It is true, however, that overweight adds to the work of the heart and this is why physicians insist that people with heart disease keep their weight down. However, overweight cannot be called the cause of heart and blood vessel diseases, nor, on the other hand, is the absence of excess pounds a guarantee that a person will not get heart trouble.

The one thing, though, that the doctors associated with the Monroe County Heart Committee are firm on is:

Overweight is a health hazard whether a person has heart disease or not.

Special Symposium

Recently the American Heart Association sponsored a special medical symposium on overweight. Speakers at this meeting were in general agreement that it is much easier to prevent overweight than to try to cure it. They emphasized that prevention instead of dieting was the best approach to weight control. And the best way to prevent pounds from piling up, they pointed out, was to keep in balance the amount of energy taken in as food and the amount of energy used up in our everyday activities.

When the energy used up is equal to the energy in the food eaten, weight remains the same. Upset this balance and weight is either gained or lost.

Moreover, as people grow older, bodily changes occur which reduce requirements still more.

Yet, because of habit, people continue to eat the same large amounts of food they may once have required.

You can help restore the balance between energy output and food intake by increasing the amount of moderate regular exercise, the Heart Committee points out. This need be no more strenuous than walking to the corner store instead of hopping into the car. As for food intake, the secret is to make a habit of eating a little bit less, not to go on a drastic diet all at once.

Four Points

The Heart Committee urges readers to keep these four points in mind:

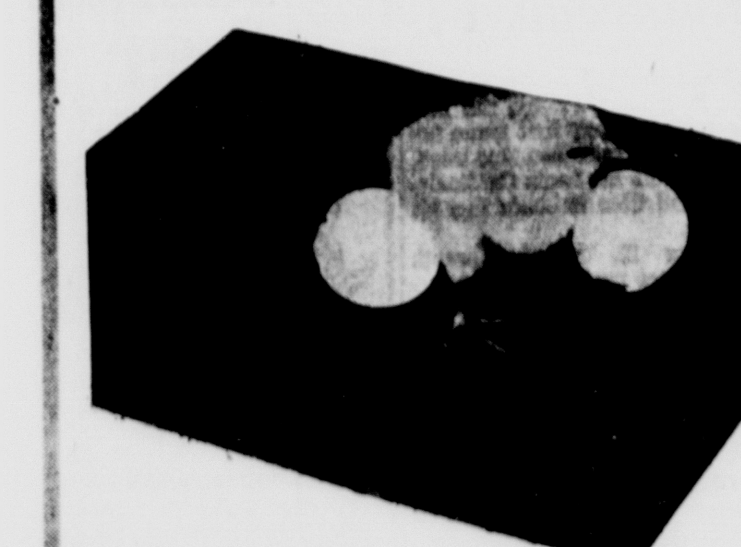

1. Good general nutrition is important to everyone. Eat a varied and well balanced diet. Use "nutritional common sense." If you are in doubt about what to eat, ask your physician.
2. Keep your weight normal. Your doctor will tell you the ideal weight for you. Don't put yourself on special diet. In the first place, it may be harmful. Second, you may not need it.
3. If your doctor has put you on a special diet, follow it exactly. Don't make "just this once" exceptions.

THANKS...

We were overwhelmed. We just could not believe it. We had to turn many, many well wishers away from our opening last week-end. We are sorry that many were disappointed and had to go away before being served. We thank you for this fine patronage and interest in our new Restaurant. We heard many kind remarks about our Beautiful Hawaiian Room. We're getting better organized now. Won't you come back so that we can play host again. We know you'll continue to enjoy this newest of Steak and Seafood Restaurants.

Five Run Second Gives Trenton Win Over ESSC

TRENTON scored five times in the second inning, to hand East Stroudsburg State College its third loss of the season 5-2, at Normal Hill Friday.

The game was shortened to seven innings by the 5:30 curfew rule.

Webb Michael worked only one and two-thirds innings but was charged with all the runs and five of Trenton's seven hits. Leroy Smith took over in the second and blanked the visitors the rest of the way.

The Warriors out hit Trenton 10-7 but left 12 runners stranded, two in the final inning.

Pusateri Homers

Catcher Joe Pusateri smacked a homer over the left field fence in the fourth inning, scoring Tom Rider ahead of him.

It was the second loss in a row for the Warriors and also the second consecutive curfew-shortened game.

The Warriors jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Ernie Howe led off with a single and went to second when centerfielder Tom Wagner bobbled the ball.

Al Stockholm's grounder to Bill Taylor at first sent Howe to third and scored on Dick Zimmer's ground ball that Bill Recine couldn't handle.

Short-Lived Lead

But the East Stroudsburg lead didn't last too long. Michael got Joe Doherty out on an infield pop up in the second, but walked Tim Taylor. Pusateri's throw to Howe cut Taylor down on an attempted steal.

Back to back singles by Hank Burns, Joe Mendini and Bill Carlson accounted for one run and a walk to Sam Hagel loaded the bases. Michael walked Recine, forcing in the second run.

Willis Conover's triple brought in three more runs and reliever Smith, who fanned Wagner to end the uprising.

Five Of Ten

The Warriors got their final runs on Puster's homer in the fourth.

Rider and centerfielder Barry Wray accounted for five of the 10 East Stroudsburg hits. Rider poked three singles in four trips and Wray had a single and double in four at bats.

The Warriors made a bid to tie the game in the seventh. With two out, Rider was safe on an infield error and Pusateri walked, putting the tying run on first. But Smith grounded out to end the game.

Mantle's Blast Leads Yanks Over Nats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Mantle hit a mighty home run in the first inning Friday night that launched the New York Yankees to a 7-3 victory over Washington.

It was the Senators' third loss in a row and snapped a three-game losing streak for the Yankees.

Mantle's homer was his second of the season. Batting right-handed against left-hander Jim Kaat, he sailed the ball high over the right field fence. Only three other right-handers have cleared the 31-foot barrier in right.

Lemon Blasts

Jim Lemon jumped into the lead in the American League home derby with a two-run swat in the sixth inning that tied the score at 3-3. It was his seventh.

The Yankees moved ahead to stay in the eighth.

Schoonover Fans 14 To Pace Mounties

BILL SCHOONOVER allowed only two hits and struck out 14, to lead Stroud Union to a 6-0 win over Bangor at Gordon Giffel's Field Friday.

It was the third win of the year for the Mounties, against four losses.

Ken Smith was saddled with the loss but struck out 13 and allowed only six hits. He walked six, however, and threw three wild pitches. Bangor's receivers were guilty of two passed balls.

Smith worked five and two-third innings and Duane LaBar pitched the final one-third inning.

Three Big Frames

Stroud Union scored two runs in the first, fourth and sixth innings.

Bangor threatened only twice. In the fifth, Smith opened with a double to left center. But Schoonover fanned the next two batters and got Leo Reimer to ground out to second baseman Bill Possinger.

In the sixth the Slaters got Ben Reimer as far as second but Schoonover again cut the rally short by striking out LaBar to end the frame.

John Carson opened the home half of the first with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. A wild pitch advanced him to third. Gary Rinker fanned and Carl Kohl followed suit. But catcher D. Holland dropped the ball and threw wildly to first, allowing Carson to score.

Out Stretching

Schoonover forced Kohl at second, Schoonover stole second and scored on Don Metzgar's single. Metzgar was out trying to stretch his hit into a double.

Barry Bond got the fourth frame rolling with a single and scored on Leo Frailey's two bagger. George Kresge grounded out, moving Frailey to third.

Possinger laid down a squeeze bunt and Frailey beat the throw to the plate.

Metzgar's single in the sixth scored Carson and Kohl with the final runs.

Pierce Beats Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Billy Pierce's steady pitching, backed by a three-run rally, gave the Chicago White Sox a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians before a crowd of 19,970 Friday night in the opener of a four-game series.

The victory stretched Chicago's lead in the American League race to one full game over the Boston Red Sox, whose game with the Baltimore Orioles was rained out.

Pierce gave up eight scattered hits in winning his third game of the season against one loss. It was the veteran southpaw's second win over the Indians.

Hawkins Loses

The loser was rookie right-hander Wynn Hawkins. It was his second loss against three wins.

The White Sox jumped on Hawkins in the fifth for three runs on a walk and three singles. The big blow was a two-run single to left field by Minnie Minoso after two were out. Tito Francona backed up against the left field fence to catch Roy Sievers' fly that ended the rally.

Third Game Hurts Pair In ABC

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 191-pin drop from their second to their third game Friday may have cost Edgar Holly of Warren, Ariz., and Ron Schlechte, of St. Louis, a place in the top 10 doubles standings at the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

The pair opened with 414 and 491 two-man games only to fall off to a dismal 300 finale in which Holly shot 158 and Schlechte, 142. Their 1,206 total still was the high doubles count of the day, however.

Joseph Frick, of Philadelphia, led the singles scoring with 656 and Gene Vargo, of Detroit, assembled the top all-events count, 1,851.

Swing The Grip Not The Club Head

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of a series of weekly golf instruction articles by Pocono Mountain golf professionals.

by Harry Obitz and Dick Farley
Golf Professionals
Shawnee Inn

TOO MANY golfers try to swing a golf club with the club head.

The result is what is termed "levering," or an early wrist cock.

The butt end of the club and the club head should move in the same direction at the same time. When the club head is taken back and the butt end is not, the result is levering and the golfer has ruined his chance of hitting a good shot before the swing is a quarter completed.

A good golf swing starts with the butt end or grip being taken back first. Forget about the club head. If the grip is taken back correctly, the club head will follow correctly.

Automatic Cock

And don't worry about cocking the wrists. The top pros are never conscious of the wrist cock. The cock comes naturally through the force of the club being stopped on the backswing, whether it is a driver or a short iron.

Levering is also a major cause of poor putting. Many golfers think they are wrist putting, when they are actually levering.

If the putting stroke is started with a lever, the face of the putter is turned away from the ball making it almost impossible to stroke a straight putt.

Chip shots are also affected by levering. The golfer takes the club head back and the butt end forward and then snaps the club down into the ball, usually hitting two or three inches in back of the ball.

THE ATTRACTIVE lady shown with me in the picture above is Miss Laura McCarty, home economics supervisor for the schools of Monroe and Southern Wayne counties, Pen Argyl and Bangor, now participating in the Home Economics Days exhibits in Stroudsburg stores. Miss McCarty has a flashing smile, bright brown eyes, dark brown bangs, and a lot of pep and enthusiasm—all of which are wonderful assets for a teacher or executive. She also has, for absolutely no reason at all, a bad case of the jitters along about now for this is the first time she has directed the annual exhibit which was organized years ago by Mr. Wyckoff at the instigation—and with the very able assistance—of the late Miriam Lark. It is a tribute to both of these "conspirators" in this worthy effort, that the Home Economics exhibit of today has expanded far and beyond the available space here in our store.
